EGR 193: The Virtual Internship Experience

EGR 193 is a summer-only course designed for students who have not otherwise secured an internship/co-op. The experience is designed to expose students to networking opportunities, social and professional development, as well as building technical skills.

Content is delivered through a combination of:

- o Course text and assignments/reflections

- o Employer or Center-led Seminars and Workshops

- o Individual and virtual skill building projects

- o Networking experiences

Frequently Asked Questions:

- What course will I enroll in?

    - o EGR 193: Section 1

- What is the cost for EGR 193?

    - o Similar to the other EGR X courses, students will receive a scholarship that covers the cost of tuition, plus half of any engineering fee applied for the semester of enrollment.

- Is EGR 193 Virtual or In-Person?

    - o Most of the EGR 193 seminars and projects are held virtually. There are also optional, in-person, offerings in select geographical locations throughout the summer. Students can complete the entire EGR 193 course virtually, if desired. All work will be submitted via D2L.

- What is the time commitment?

    - o Students will need to commit approximately 6-10 hours per week on average. Students have a degree of flexibility to spread hours throughout the summer to complete requirements.

- When is the course held?

    - o The course is held starting in early/mid-June each year and runs until early-August. Individual sessions and projects will mostly be asynchronous. However, there will be some synchronous professional development and skill building workshops and seminars offered as well. Students will receive ample notification of these synchronous opportunities.

- Does EGR 193 count towards the EGR X Waiver?

- No. Only EGR 391-EGR 494 count towards the EGR X Waiver.
